UNIQUE WEDDING.

The most unique wedding ever witnessed in Richwood was solemnized in the front of the Sagraves and Richardson Hardware store Wednesday afternoon at 2:30, the contracting parties being Mr. Lora Detimore and Miss Jennie Perkins, both well known young people of this place.

The enterprising manager of the store, Mr. J. M. Sagraves, had made the unique proposition that to the couple who would get married in the store on the above named day (that being the Big Sales Day) he would give a new White Sewing machine, and upon learning that the above named young people were going to get married on the day set himself to the task of getting them to marry in the store, which they consented to do. When the time had arrived there were about a thousand people standing in front of the big store. The curtain was raised exactly at the appointed time and just a few seconds there was a little confusion on the outside. Then the eager crowd became quiet and rather serious, and you would not have seen better behaviour at a church wedding. The beautiful ceremony of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, was read by the pastor, Rev. W. H. Foglesong. Both the bride and groom are members of the M. E. Church, South and the bride is one of the most faithful Sunday school scholars belonging to the Calvary Sunday school of which Mr. Sagraves is the efficient Superintendent.—Richwood, W. Va., Independent.
